it has been shown that as many as 70% of people with depression have a genetic error called the MTHFR.