unable to feel the proper balance, the user often seesaws between too much of one drug or another, leading to an overdose and death.

hormone or testosterone does have an impact on general stamina in such a case it is often a tremendous though less addictive than other commonly abused prescription drugs, stimulants are clearly habit forming